This book seeks to engage the heart, the head and the hands. It has Biblical principles of giving and receiving to engage the heart, the whys and hows of giving to inform the head and practical suggestions for raising support to equip the hands.

The author, Myles Wilson, has lived from a support base for many years and advises a number of large Christian organizations. The book delights in the fact that support raising is a partnership between senders/givers and goers/receivers. Each needs the other it is how God funds his family business.

An essential read for anybody raising their own support.
