To help answer this question, "What is happening in UK mission training?" the Global Connections network commissioned research into the situation of mission training in the UK. This was completed by Vaughan Consulting in February 2006.

The research explores:

- current demand for mission training
- current supply of mission training
- perceptions of trends and developments in mission training
- views of quality of mission training

The research also outlines some practical recommendations. The mission training day event to review the findings of the results has taken place and as a network we are currently clarifying how we continue to respond to the challenges highlighted in this research.
